Summary

I am drupal backend developer, architect and consultant.

I like designing and developing scalable web apps and backend programming on the web.

During my 18+ years course I have acquired expertise in a broad area of web related technologies.

I have been involved in a variety of web projects like ecommerce, reservation systems, ticketing systems, social portals, CRM/ERP integration services, api consumption, LDAP/Active Directory integration, custom search systems with solr, data migration, payment gateways integration and more. I have also gained knowledge in other fields such as SEO, web server optimisation, linux administration and performance tuning.

I have excellent communication skills, an eye for details and team leading abilities.

I love agile development and apply it whenever possible. I am a fan of automation and continuous integration.

My goal is to provide quality results by using the newest technologies and trends.

I am always looking for challenging new projects that will extend my expertise.

Contact me if you have one or just for a free advice.
